The entire committee promised to unite in recommending as much as $200,000 for Bethel Woman's College and to help put the program through for an increase of the budget to $2,000,000.

The Committee came home much elated over the outcome of their visit.

One of the conditions of the Russellville College's appropriation was that it become co-educational. Rescinding the appropriation relieves Bethel College of this competition and President Dasher, who was present, stated that he would now suspend all plans for admitting girls to his school and lend his influence to Bethel Woman's College.

The local trustees have at once taken steps to make extensive improvements for the fall term.

In the meantime appropriations may be anticipated by subscribers to the $200,000 fund and subscriptions may be designated to Bethel Woman's College, to be credited on the appropriation to be made next November.

BETHEL NOW ON THE MAP

BAPTIST EDUCATION SOCIETY OPENS APPROPRIATIONS FOR WOMAN'S COLLEGE

REFERRED TO GEN. ASSOCIATION

Which Meets At Georgetown Next November and Bethel Sure of Big Slice.

The Baptist Educational Society, of Kentucky, which controls all Baptist schools in the State, has rescinded the action taken last winter, appropriating $700,000 without recognizing Bethel Woman's College.

The board of trustees of the local school entered a vigorous protest and were given a hearing by the Board Monday of this week.

The apportionment gave the fund to three schools, viz:

Williamstown College, $400,000. Bethel College, Russellville, $200,000. Russell Creek Academy, $100,000.

The General Association itself had apportioned Georgetown College $700,000, of a total fund to be raised in five years amounting to $1,400,000.

Chas. M. Mencham and Geo. E. Gary, trustees, and H. H. Abernathy, treasurer of the Bethel Association, constituted a committee that met with the Society at the Watterson hotel, Louisville, at 1:30 p. m.

They were given a patient hearing in spite of the embarrassing fact that no change could be made in Bethel's favor without interfering with appropriations already announced. After a lengthy discussion, a motion made by Dr. J. W. Porter was passed referring the matter of appropriations back to the Executive Committee having them in charge with instructions to reconsider their action and give Bethel Woman's College $100,000, the mover of the resolution promising that the General Association would be asked to give an additional sum by increasing its original budget. This resolution passed by the close vote of 5 to 4, Chairman Wright breaking a tie.

Dr. Porter, chairman of the Executive Committee at once called a meeting of that committee for the next day at Cavalry Baptist church.

At this meeting the question was discussed further and an agreement reached and the following resolutions passed:

"That the whole question of appropriations be referred back to the General Association for final adjustment, with the request that the amount agreed upon by the Joint Committee for the different Schools shall not be decreased and that other schools including Bethel Woman's College, may be taken in to the program and appropriations made as their needs may appear, and that the general fund be increased accordingly."

The entire committee promised to unite in recommending as much as $200,000 for Bethel Woman's College and to help put the program through for an increase of the budget to $2,000,000.

The Committee came home much elated over the outcome of their visit.

FIUME WILL BE UNDER LEAGUE

SAYS INDEPENDENT STATE WILL CONTAIN FIUME-LABAUCH RAILROAD

AND ITALY WILL GET ZARA

German Claims In Counter-Proposals Saar Coal Is Only Claim To Territory.

Paris, May 30.—The Temps says that an agreement virtually has been reached on the Adriatic question and that President Wilson who saw the Jugo-Slav delegates Tuesday has given his consent to the arrangement which Premier Orlando of Italy has accepted.

According to the Temps the essential points in the agreement are:

1. Fiume, not including the suburb of Suchak, forms with the region to the west, an independent State under the League of Nations. This state will be bound by Italian territory and contain the railroad from Fiume to Labauch.

2. Zara (capital of Dalmatia) and Sebenice (seventy miles southeast of Trieste on the Adriatic) will be placed under the sovereignty of Italy, which renounces any other part of the Dalmatian coast and hinterland.

3. Italy will exercise sovereignty over islands called strategic, namely: Cherso (twenty miles southwest of Fiume belonging to Istria), Lussian, (southwest of Cherso and also Istrian) and Lissa (thirty three miles southwest of Spalato in the Adriatic, belonging to Dalmatia), with the outlying islands.

Furthermore, says the Temps, the League of Nations grants Italy the mandate over Albania, where the treaty of London assures Italy preponderating influence.

When the peace conference met in plenary session this afternoon to hear the Austrian peace terms it was announced that the treaty has not yet been completed. It was decided therefore to postpone the session until Saturday, when the complete treaty was expected to be ready.

Counter Proposals Delivered.
The counter proposals formulated by the German delegation at Versailles have been delivered to the French authorities. The proposals went before the council of four at the peace conference at this morning's session.

The German reply was received in installments. The first installment comprised 88 pages. Other installments followed.

The reply is written in German and bears the caption:

"Observations of the German delegation on the conditions of peace."

In the section treating on territorial questions the German counter-proposals to the terms presented by the Allies, say, according to a synopsis reaching Paris by the way of Basle "that the territory of the Saar, inhabited by 500,000 people solely because of claims upon its coal."

It is pointed out that during fifteen years the territory is to be subject to the control of a commission in the nomination of which the population has no choice.

Regarding Schleswig Holstein, the German reply remarks that the frontier to be voted upon under the stipulations of the treaty goes much further even than the Danish government desires.

The German delegation presented only three copies of the counter-proposal to the secretariat of the peace conference. Twenty interpreters were busy translating the document from German to English and French.

School and Book Men Show Much Interest in Court of Appeals Ruling.

Frankfort, Ky., May 28.—The approaching decision of the Court of Appeals in the state textbook case, which has been under submission since May 10, has resumed sway as principal topic of interest among politicians, publishers and school men.

Judge Robert L. Stout, of the Franklin Circuit, held the whole adoption invalid on the ground that commission had changed more than 50 per cent, of the subjects.

The Court of Appeals may affirm his judgment, granting a writ of mandamus to Prof. E. B. Weather, Jr., and require the State Textbook Commission to reassemble and make a new adoption; it may reverse him entirely; it may hold that the Heizer physiology, Grinstead spelled and the history, sample copies of which were submitted in dummy form, were illegally adopted, but that the remainder of the adoption was valid; or it may hold that the commission exceeded its authority by changing too many subjects and require it to amend its adoption by renewing contracts on 50 per cent, of the old books.

It has been conjectured that the court is taking pains, if the adoption is thrown out, to direct the commission exactly how to proceed in conformity with the law.

If Judge Stout is affirmed, Gov. Black will have the situation to deal with and he has not relieved the curiosity of those who would like to know how he will handle it. He said he is reserving expressions of his opinion until the court acts.

DORMITORY OF 25 ROOMS

TO BE ERECTED AT BETHEL WOMAN'S COLLEGE BY THE FALL TERM

TRUSTEES TAKE QUICK ACTION

Following Assurances of Aid From The Baptist Education Society.

Bethel Woman's College Will Reopen The Fall Session With New Building

The Board of Trustees of Bethel Woman's College met Tuesday night and decided to begin at once the erection of a new two-story and basement dormitory.

The dormitory will be detached, leaving the question of building wings to the main building for future consideration. The small building was decided upon because it can be rushed to completion by September.

It will be about 35 by 90 feet, with a basement of 35 by 60 or 70 feet to be made into a gymnasium.

At the same time it was ordered that the old building be given a thorough overhauling and many improvements added.

From $25,000 to $30,000 will be spent during the summer.

The complete plans provide for wings on both sides and two detached dormitories, all to conform to a general scheme of architecture.

John T. Waller, the architect, is now at work on the plans and they will be submitted today to the dormitory committee composed of M. H. Tandy, T. W. Blakey and B. D. H. A. The board will meet probable Monday night to accept the plans, and take steps to begin at once. A separate committee was put in charge of the work of remodeling the old building and beautifying the grounds, though the two committees will necessarily act in concert. This committee is made up of Bailey Waller, G. H. Stowe and C. W. Garrett.

Plans were also made to bond the property for whatever amount may be needed to get the buildings ready.

Resolutions complimentary to Miss Clara Belle Thompson, president of the college for two years, and her sister, Miss Helen Thompson, a member of the faculty, were adopted. The committee is composed of Geo. E. Gary, Bailey Waller and Chairman Chas. M. Mencham.

The Misses Thompson have voluntarily severed their connection with the institution and will leave the city to the regret to their many friends.

Sergeant Alvin C. York, of Pall Mall, Tenn., winner of the congressional medal and credited by General Pershing with the greatest single piece of heroism in the world war, has returned. Sergeant York went overseas with the 328th infantry. On October 8, 1918, he accomplished his great feat. Single-handed he killed twenty-five Germans, captured 135 prisoners, including a major and three lieutenants, put thirty-five machine guns out of business, and smashed the counter-attack of a whole German battalion. Back in the mountains of Tennessee York received the call to war. He had shortly before that joined the Possum Trot church and had been promoted to second-elder. The sect he belonged to frowned on war, and York could have claimed exemption as the sole support of his mother, sisters and brothers, but he didn't. When he went to France he still had his doubts about engaging actively in slaughter. But his commander read him some Scripture from Ezekiel, 33rd chapter. Ten days later Sergeant York accomplished this great feat. Upon his return from France he was met by a delegation from Tennessee, which presented him with a $2,000 Victory bond, and this week a purse of $50,000 was raised to buy him a fine farm and merchants have agreed to stock it in every detail. York will preach in his home church tomorrow and his sweetheart is to answer his proposal of a year ago.

The old world must have the sympathy and support of the whole new world. It is with this in view that the American Red Cross finds itself with an unexpectedly hard task ahead of it. To give this neighborly help American Red Cross missions have established in every country where the enemy has brought misery. Resources have been heavily taxed to meet this need, which looms larger and larger as the situations are brought under closer survey. The work is a part of the peace time program of the Red Cross. It will continue until the need no longer exists.

Fifty canvas buildings which served last summer as hospital wards for American soldiers at Chateau Thierry have been obtained by the American Red Cross and transplanted to the site of the Paris Exposition, where they are now being used to shelter and feed 1,600 American soldiers on leave in Paris. This is the sixth free hotel which the Red Cross has established in Paris for the care of the American boys who visit the city on sightseeing trips.

Courses in child welfare, with clinical demonstrations, are now being given to young and well educated Greek women under direction of the American Red Cross in Greece. After a three-weeks' course of study those who take the course are expected to instruct the mothers in Athens and elsewhere in Greece how to properly care for children.

Over three million school children in the United States have qualified as crusaders in the health campaign conducted jointly by the Junior Red Cross and National Tuberculosis Association. Through unremitting washing, brushing of teeth and other "chores," they are advancing to knightly rank, eager to compete for the victor's pennant.

After all Hawker turns out to be a tin-foil hero. After being taken aboard a ship he was flying over in mid-ocean with a "hot-box," he no sooner reaches land than he attempts to belittle Commander Read who accomplished what Hawker did not. By belittling his successful rival he shows that a live man is smaller than a dead hero.

Mrs. Garrett A. Hobart, widow of the former vice president, was chosen second vice president of the association.

DRIVE FOR WAR DATA

HISTORICAL INFORMATION TO BE GATHERED AND FILED FOR FUTURE USE

NAMES ARE WANTED OF ALL

County Historian Anxious To Be Supplied With Data Still Lacking.

During the month of June Mr. Fred P. Caldwell, State Historian for Kentucky, will conduct a drive to aid the county historians in gathering data for the war records of soldiers, and reports of civilian work.

It is hoped sometime in the month of June to print the name and record of every Christian county soldier who was in service in school, camp, in the navy, overseas, in the air or on submarine. To do this will require the co-operation of every family who gave a soldier to the army. We wish it were possible to personally thank everyone who has already helped so cheerfully in sending in and collecting these records.

A list will be given soon giving the names of those families who gave more than one member. Those who have not handed in these records should do so at once as there are so many similar names that only a full record will show these relationships. Another list that is wanted is one of all officers from the county. This will be a long one and the aid of the mothers and families of the men is needed to make it a complete and correct one. The State Historian asked for a list who had attained the rank of major or above. There are eleven with one other who passed the examination but had not been issued the commission on the 11th of November.

All who have been asked to give reports of civilian work should send these in and if no one has been asked in any community the war organizations should see that some one is appointed to do so. Records of the boys who composed Co. D., 3rd Ky. at the beginning of the war are also wanted. Some of these have been sent in but there are many more that have not. Co. D was an organization of which every citizen should be proud and a complete record of the service of the men who composed it should be available.

The records of women and girls who went overseas or served in the U. S. or did government work at Washington are wanted, as a list of these are in preparation.

In filling out records of boys in France, please state division if possible, as the general histories of the war will be written largely from division activities.

The Historian has nearly all the local clippings concerning our boys since about the first of November, 1918, but if any one has newspapers before that date containing accounts of Christian county soldiers back to the entrance of the U. S. in the war in April, 1917, they should be very useful in completing records if sent in now.

If there is any doubt as to where a man's history should be recorded, send it in and the State Historian will decide where it should be placed. It is hoped that the name of no Christian county boy will be omitted from the final record.

It there is doubt as to whether certain information is wanted, be sure to include it. We wonder if the names of all volunteers are in.

The Historian now has the names of more than 1600 men, besides the civilian work. Some may belong to neighboring counties, some may be repetitions, but the number of bona fide Christian county men will be around 1500. This volume of data, containing so many dates and names of places, makes it necessary to ask for records and information in writing as far as possible.

Blanks will soon be in the hands of the postmasters out in the county and in addition to these can be obtained from the following persons:

In the city, Mrs. J. H. Dagg, Red Cross Home Service, Pennyroyal Building, Mrs. Virginia Lipscomb, Carnegie Library. In the county:

Mr. L. E. Gates, Kirkmansville.
Mr. W. F. Frick, Crofton.
Mr. Marion Dukes, Crofton.
Miss Elizabeth Reese, Pembroke.
Mr. C. B. Brewer, Fairview.
Mrs. Phil Roberts, Gracey.
Mrs. W. N. Stice, Cerulean.
Mr. Wilbert Franklin, Franklin's store, Dawson.
Mrs. A. C. King, Oak Grove.
Mrs. Frazier Williams, Lafayette.

MRS. W. T. FOWLER,
County Historian,

MRS. W. T. FOWLER,

County Historian,

Hopkinsville, Ky.

Rockaway Beach, Long Island, to Plymouth, England, the NC-4 covered the 800 miles in nine hours and 43 minutes, maintaining an average speed of better than 80 miles an hour. The total elapsed flying time from Newfoundland to Lisbon was 26 hours and forty-five minutes.

At the first opportunity the big plane will continue to Plymouth 775 nautical miles to the north. Possibly Commander Read can start tomorrow.

To the navy department, however, it makes little difference when he completes the journey. The great object of all the effort lavished on the undertaking—navigation of a seaplane across the Atlantic in the air—has been accomplished. Twentieth century transportation has reached a new pinnacle and the United States navy has led the way.

Naval officials emphasized that the long delay at the Azores was due to the weather and to no weakness of the machine or its daring crew, nor to the failure of the carefully laid plans of the department to guide the fliers to their destination.

The fourteen destroyers strung from Ponta Delgada to Lisbon reported with machine-like precision today as the flight progressed. The plane was never off its course and there was no moment when officials in Washington did not know to within a few miles where it was in the air.

Relayed Reports.

To maintain adequate communication for this stage of the journey, the destroyers stuck to their posts after the flying boat had passed, relaying back to Ponta Delgada reports from ships farther eastward. The chain was not broken until after the plane was safely moored for the night near the cruiser Rochester at Lisbon.

For the next few hundred miles of his epoch-making journey Commander Read and his crew will be within sight of the Portuguese or Spanish coasts in the sweep northward. Skirting the coast of Cape Finisterre, they will head out across the bay of Biscay to sight Brest, the most westerly point of France, thence direct to Plymouth.

The destroyers that will guide them across the bay were already in position tonight provided with the flares and bombs that have made the trip safe so far except for the fog that forced the other two machines of the seaplane division, the NC-1 and NC-3 out of the flight after they had safely negotiated virtually half the distance from Newfoundland to the Azores.

Commander Read had with him on the flight to Lisbon that same crew as that which left Newfoundland on the NC-4 on May 16. Lieuts. E. F. Stone of the coast guard and W. K. Hinton were the pilots with Ensign R. C. Rodd as radio operator and Chief Machinist's Mate E. S. Rodas as reserve pilot engineer.

The crew was met at Lisbon by most members of the crews of the NC-1 and NC-3 who had preceded them on a destroyer.

Winds Aided Flight.

The chart of the flight, as shown by the reports of the station ship destroyers on the NC-4's progress today, shows how the winds helped her along. At times Commander Read's ship apparently was whirling through the air at a 90 knot clip; again her speed fell off to less than 60, only to pick up again as she reached the zone of influence of other breezes.

Immediately Secretary Daniels cabled congratulations of the department to Commander Read. The secretary also sent a cable to President Wilson at Paris, telling him that the American naval aviators had been the first to cross the Atlantic.

The message to Commander Read follows:

"Lieut. Commander Albert C. Read,

Commanding NC-4 seaplane,

Care Rear Admiral Plunkett,

U. S. S., Rochester, Lisbon, Portugal.

"The entire navy congratulates you and your fellow aviators on your epochal flight. The ocean has been spanned through the air and to the American navy goes the honor of making the first trans-Atlantic flight. We all are intensely proud of your achievement and thankful that it has been accomplished without mishap to anyone of the daring aviators who left our shores on the first air journey to Europe. To all of them and to you all honor is due.

"JOSEPHUS DANIELS,"

Cable President.

The cablegram from the secretary to President Wilson said:

"Know you will be delighted to learn naval aviators first to cross the Atlantic."

Secretary Daniels said today no definite plans for further trans-Atlantic flights have been made. He explained that the first trip was the beginning of a series of experiments in long distance flying and that very probably after defects in naval aircraft brought to light had been corrected, another squadron of seaplanes would be headed across the Atlantic. Mr. Daniels said he had not decided whether the NC-4 should attempt to fly back to the United States or be "knocked down" at Plymouth, and shipped back to America.

"Let Go," Once in a While. Half the joy of life is in "letting go" every once in awhile, and if you let go twice every once in awhile, it seems that you have just that much more fun.

Boy Scout Week.

Another movement that will be popular in Evansville is that of the Boy Scouts. Hardly an organization but what is indebted from services from these many young fellows during the past year. And the public will welcome this week of June 8-14 when they can show some return of appreciation.

In this week it is hoped greatly to increase the membership of the Boy Scouts, and also to enroll a large associate membership who will by the payment of small dues and more especially by moral encouragement lend their aid to the Boy Scout movement.

The value of the training that a boy receives through his Scout membership is unquestioned. The value of the organization to the community has been shown too frequently to need elaboration at this time. The Boy Scout movement is one with which the public is thoroughly familiar and the management of the campaign from June 8 to 14 may count on a ready, a warm and hearty response from all quarters.

GREAT FARM BARGAIN---

We have for sale one of the very best farms in Christian county, at $100 per acre.

It is the McCarty farm, known for 15 years as the Lee Watkins farm, and the Keeney farm adjoining, two miles east of Gracey and 7 miles west of Hopkinsville.

They contain 740 acres and the tract is well improved, well watered, with plenty of timber and in a fine state of cultivation.

It lies on the Cadiz pike and near both the I. C. and L. & N. railroads.

The way farm lands are selling in Christian county, the price of $100 per acre is a real bargain. Call on either E. C. Radford or J. C. Johnson.

HOLDS CHILD UNDER

FOURTEEN MAY WORK

In an opinion given to Mrs. Chas. Musgrove, of the state labor department, Attorney General Crales Morris held that a child under fourteen years of age may be employed during the school term providing that he is not employed during any part of the time that the school is in daily session. This is the first opinion on this subject as far as could be ascertained by the attorney general's office. It construes section 1 of section 331-a of the child labor law, which provides that a child under fourteen years of age shall not be employed "during any part of the term which the public schools of the district in which the child resides are in session. Morris holds that the words term and session are intended to mean session. He holds that a child can work before and after school hours.

CLOWN DIED A WAR HERO, AMONG THE FIRST CALLED

(New York Times)

Of the more than three hundred men, acrobats, aerialists, clowns, animal trainers, office workers, arena men, and others, who left the circus to join the ranks of the army or navy, about one hundred have returned to their old jobs with the shows. Some, however, will never return and golden stars on the service flag of the circus tell why. The veterans who return sound of limb and good health are promptly reinstated in their old positions with the traveling shows. Those who still suffer from wounds, shell shock, gas or other incapacity, are provided for at the winter quarters of the circuses or in the home offices.

"Jerry" Clayton, the clown, whose antics have delighted the children of New York and other cities, was one of the circus performers who made the supreme sacrifice. He was a New Yorker and was one of the first men called in the selective draft and was among the first to waive exemption. He went overseas with the 77th division and was killed in action Aug. 13, 1918.

One of the veterans now back with the circus is Clarence G. Richards. He enlisted in the marines in the first week after congress declared war, and was wounded thirteen times in Belleau Wood. He wears a silver plate on one of his shins and another in his jaw. He was shot in the head while being removed from the battlefield after being caught in a machine gun burst and falling with 12 bullet wounds. A German airplane dropped a bomb, and it was a fragment of which wounded him in the head while he was being transferred to the dressing station. Richards is one of the twenty-eight managerie men who quit the circus for war in April, 1917.

WORLD'S WAR SOLDIERS

LED BY OLD GENERALS

(New York Sun.)

The French correspondent of the Army and Navy Journal, J. B. Gautreau, comments on the maturity, not to say advanced age, of the generals victorious in the war. Of the three marshals, 118 generals of divisions and 261 generals of brigades in the French active service, the youngest of the brigade generals is forty-four; the youngest general of division is 50; all the army group commanders are beyond sixty. It is a contrast, Gautreau says, which the wars of the French revolution, which brought to prominence generals who were scarcely more than twenty-five, such as Bonaparte, Hoche and Marceau. It is not necessary to go back as far as that to find groups of military commanders comparatively young. Our own civil war supplies enough. To mention the oldest of the prominent generals on the Union side, Hooker was forty-nine when Lee beat him at Chancellorsville, Meade forty-seven at Gettysburg, Sherman was 44 when he started from Atlanta to the sea. Grant was only 43 at Appomattox, McClellan thirty-six at Antietam, Sheridan was thirty-three when he galloped to Winchester. Of the Confederate leaders, Albert Sidney Johnston was fifty-eight and Lee and Joe Johnston were fifty-four when the war began; Longstreet was forty. Stonewall Jackson, whose beard and piety are to the schoolboy evidences of old age, was only thirty-nine when he was killed at Chancellorsville. Hood was but thirty-three when he took command against Sherman.

Trans-Atlantic Flight.

In an August day of 1910 a large concourse of notable people met in Arlington across the Potomac from Washington. In one of the tents erected there was President Taft and a party of friends. After a long wait two airplanes appeared flying low. They were navigated by the Wright brothers and had flown the enormous distance of ten miles. The delay in their arrival was due to their waiting for the little wind that was blowing to completely die down. The flight was an amazing success and the bold airmen received the congratulations of the distinguished assemblage.

This was less than ten years ago and now an American seaplane manned by American naval officers has successfully crossed the Atlantic ocean.

It is about one hundred years ago that a ship propelled by steam and navigated by a Yankee skipper first crossed the Atlantic. It was a small craft of a few thousand tons that made the hazardous voyage in about two weeks. The ship was well equipped with sails to be used in case the new motive power proved a failure. From that experiment with steam to the great trans-Atlantic liners of today is a far cry, but it helps us to imagine what will be the development of the trans-Atlantic flight in the next hundred years. It takes the finest steamer with the greatest turbine engines nearly six days to make the passage. The flying time of the NC-4 was a little more than a day. Time and space have both received a knockout punch at the hands of the brave American naval air navigators.

That the experiment should be made by the navy is also significant of the future.—Evansville Courier.

MISS REEDER BITTEN BY DOG

Will Take Pasteur Treatment In Fast Bouts Put On for the Amusement of a Large Crowd of Enthusiastic Fans.

Miss Nannie Reeder, teacher at the West Side Graded School, was bitten in the hand Wednesday by a dog which it is feared may be going mad.

Miss Reeder was passing the home of Mr. Bailey Russell on the West Side and reaching over the fence attempted to pet the dog when the animal snapped at her hand, painfully biting two fingers.

The animal never before displayed a vicious disposition but lately had suffered from a spell of sickness and it is feared that it may have hydrophobia.

Miss Reeder left yesterday morning for Bowling Green to take the Pasteur treatment as a precautionary measure.

RED CROSS ITEMS OF INTEREST TO SOLDIERS

The American Red Cross Civilian Relief Department will give supplementary aid in connection with the United States Public Health service in new hospitals to be built for discharged sick and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines.

A recent act of congress enacts a law carrying a total appropriation of over $10,000,000 for the expansion of hospital activities.

The government is formulating plans for refunding to discharged soldiers the difference between 3 1/2 and 5 cents per mile on transportation. The Home Service Workers of the American Red Cross are advising the holding of claims for refund on travel pay until application blanks are received at the Red Cross office.

American soldiers in the A. E. F. may now receive parcel post packages from home without having to send written requests.

The American Red Cross has not authorized the selling of war pictures of souvenirs of any kind to soldiers in uniform. The local Red Cross Chapter will investigate any case of this sort through its home Service Section.

Dr. C. A. Prosser director of the Federal Board of Vocational Education in a recent lecture in the interest of disabled soldiers in the need of employment says, "The American Red Cross has given these men needed information, money and help in the matter of getting delayed and needed allotments for their family. Without the Red Cross their suffering would have been incomprehensibly greater."

WRESTLING AT ARMORY

Thursdays night the second wrestling tournament was held at the Armory and a large crowd of sport lovers was on hand.

The program opened with a fast bout between Robert Noblett and Walter Hancock which the latter won in three minutes with a double body hold.

The next was between Cecil Allen and Joe Garrett, the plow boy wonder. The pair were so evenly matched that they wrestled twenty-five minutes before Allen won the first fall, but as the crowd did not approve the referee's decision it was agreed to have a second fall, the winner of which was to have the bout Joe Garrett won this in eight minutes.

"Fighting Bob" Garrett of the marine corps and Carl Ashby gave a fast exhibition of boxing. Sometime next week Joe Garrett will wrestle with Stanley Wadlington to a finish.

Under the guidance of Rev. A. S. Anderson the club has grown to such an extent that it is now planned to have a reading room in addition to the gymnasium.

The two side rooms will be fitted out with writing materials and a library.

Howell is a physical lightweight, but quick as a flash retorted: "I can fill it all right, but what it needs is something besides physique."

TWENTY GIRLS NEEDED FOR INCREASING BUSINESS

These are busy days at the Blum-buck Manufacturing Company. When the city first secured the factory for Hopkinsville and work was actually begun, 30 machines were installed, but now over 60 are running full time to turn out the many garments demanded by their increasing business. The office has been completely remodeled. The walls have been taken down and glass partitions installed. The ever increasing business necessitated this enlargement. Twenty more girls are wanted to work in the factory, to take charge of the new machines which are being installed.

THE SCHOOLMA'AM By ETHEL M. FARMER.

Miss Brooks stood on the threshold of the little village school vigorously ringing the rusty old bell. Many school-ma'ams had stood on that same threshold ringing that same rusty bell but somehow this one seemed different from the rest. And somehow the clanging of the bell seemed clearer than ever.

The ringing of the bell ceased, the long line of children passed into the building and the schoolhouse door was closed. It was very evident that the long days in the little school were not ones of drudgery. The teacher, who was little more than a girl herself, was dearly loved by all the children.

As she began the day's work no one would have surmised that in her heart there was trouble.

"It really did seem strange about Ed. It could not be true. Dick was mistaken. He—"

A suppressed giggle interrupted her wandering thoughts.

With great dignity she asked a very modest little girl, who proudly wore two tight braids down her back, the cause of the disturbance.

"Excuse me, please," the girl spoke timidly, "but we had this lesson two days ago."

"Excuse me, too," was all she said, as she reassigned the lesson.

The clock carefully ticked away the minutes and the hands gradually crept along their daily journey. Then a ruler fell on the floor with a sounding thud!

A little red-headed fellow in the front seat was working very industriously, with his desk covered with papers and opened books, but the tell-tale ruler lay in the aisle beside him.

"Jimmy!"

"Er, yes'm, Miss Brooks; did you mean me?" And he struggled desperately to return her look with innocence.

"Pick it up!" she said slowly, forcing back a smile.

With great surprise he leaned over and picked up the offending article and placed it thoughtfully in his desk.

All went well for a while after the ruler was safely deposited out of sight until Jimmy suddenly thought of the lovely, big cud of gum he had stuck under his desk.

"How good it would taste!" he thought, but he knew how stern "she" was on chewing in school—he had tried it before.

He studied the clock with a sigh, for there were 15 minutes more! At last he could stand it no longer, and the gum was suddenly and slyly transferred from the desk to his mouth.

"How good it was!" And he gave it a few good chews.

"Jimmy!" came in low tones from the other side of the room.

"Er, yes'm," he replied, jumping to his feet, "I'll take—"

"Put it in the basket and crawl in under my desk. Stay there until the bell rings."

At last the closing bell rang and the children filed out of the building, but Miss Brooks did not notice that Jimmy did not appear.

With a sigh she sat down at her desk and drew out part of a newspaper clipping which told of the engagement of Lieut. Edward Smith to a beautiful "society belle." All of the article was not there, but Dick had assured her that it was true and that Ed had not treated her fair.

Just then Dick himself entered the room.

"Where shall we go this evening?" he asked cheerfully.

"Are you sure this is true about Ed?" she asked him again.

"How can you doubt it? Forget about him and we will have a good time together."

She shook her head.

"I guess I will not go tonight. Somehow I do not believe that is true about him."

Suddenly Jimmy opened his eyes.

Who said Ed? Why, Ed was his special friend and was coming home from the army this very day!

He scrambled out from under the desk, rubbing his eyes.

"Why, I've been asleep and I promised to meet Ed right after school."

"Ed?" she asked in surprise, after overcoming the shock of the unexpected third party.

The boy's face fell.

"It was to be a surprise to you," he stammered.

Just then Dick picked up his whip, which he had laid on a chair, and disappeared through the door, for he had suddenly spied a tall soldier hastening up the road with one arm carried stiffly in a sling.

He had just barely left when the soldier entered.

"Ruth!"

She looked with surprise and joy at the newcomer.

A few minutes later she passed her worn clipping to Ed slowly.

His face clouded as he read, but it immediately cleared when he realized its significance, and the cause of the strange disappearance of his old rival whom he had just caught a glimpse of down the road.

"This is another Ed Smith, who lives in town," he assured her. "I know him. Don't worry about me."

No more explanations were necessary and Miss Brooks' "problem" was settled very satisfactorily.

At a signal from Ed, Jimmy scampered from the building, but he saw what happened later when he gleefully climbed up on the roof and peeped in at the cracked window.

WEDDING BELLS

McGinley-Foster.

Miss Lena Foster and Prof. L. J. McGinley were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Tuesday morning at the Baptist church in Pembroke. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants. As a prelude, Mrs. L. E. Foster, sister of the groom, sang "Because I Love You, Dear" in a beautiful and touching manner.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Etta Traube.

The six ushers, Messrs. Lucien McCauley, Warren Dulin, Russell Roam, Collins Williams, Whitfield Radford and Willie Major were followed by the brother of the groom, Rev. J. M. McGinley, of Kansas City, Mo., who performed the ceremony. Next came the page, Master Aubrey Wells, carrying a basket of sweet peas. Then came the groom and Prof. Lowe G. Johnson, his best man.

The ring bearer, little Miss Fidelia Foster, brought in the ring on a satin pillow. Following came the bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. Bryan Foster. The ceremony was impressively said by Dr. McGinley and the party left the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march.

The bride and groom accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Foster left the church for their home.

The Plugger

By VINCENT G. PERRY

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Malcolm McDougall was officially known as the city editor of the "News," but any title from office boy to managing editor could have been applied to him—not that the "News" was a small one-horse paper, but Malcolm was a 60-horse power plugger in the true sense of the word. Work! Why, 8 o'clock in the morning to midnight were easy hours for him! Nothing was done right unless he had a hand in it. No matter how well a story was written Malcolm could always find a place that needed attention. No wonder reporters didn't stay long on the "News." Although Malcolm was a nice fellow personally, he absolutely wouldn't allow another man to bring forth his individuality or originality.

Of course, with a man like Malcolm at the head of affairs the "News" got along very well with a full staff of cubs and one senior man. Larry Montrose was that senior—a senior on a junior's salary. It must be confessed, just why he put up with Malcolm and refused the offers of other papers was hard to explain, but Larry smiled at the world good-naturedly and wrote columns for Malcolm to retouch every day, even though sometimes the retouched stories were not as good as the original ones.

There was one department that Malcolm had not broken into—the woman's page. It had long been the prophesy at the "News" that that would be the next domain he would besiege, but no one had really believed such a thing possible. Sure enough, when Miss Lorene, the editor of the page, was asked to let him in, she said: "For the companionship, my husband denies me. Dear Luzette, what do you advise?"

For a long time after Malcolm had made sure of the contents of the letter he sat back in his chair and thought it over. There lay the explanation to a lot of mysteries he had been trying to solve in a half-hearted sort of way for a long time. So that was the writing Marian had been doing in secret—letters to Wendell Hughes, and a letter to "Luzette," the name under which Miss Lorene conducted her column. Wendell Hughes had wormed his way into her affections after all, he told himself angrily. What was there to do about it? Before he had been working out the problem for five minutes he had decided on half a dozen courses of action—most of them violent ones. Then conscience got in its work. He was to blame for it all, he admitted, finally. It was all his fault for neglecting Marian, the sweetest little wife in the world, as he had done. Of course he had been doing all his hard work for her—her happiness had never been out of his mind for an instant, but he had mistaken what would be happiness to her. His companionship and devoted love meant more to her than all the wealth and prosperity in the world. He could see that from the letter, and somehow the thought thrilled him.

"Take charge, I'm going home," Malcolm called out to Larry as he jumped up from his desk. "There is not much to do, but it's time you were taking some of the responsibility off my shoulders anyway. I've plugged here—too long." He stopped at the door long enough to look back and see Larry, with coat off and sleeves rolled up, digging into work with more vim than he had ever seen him exert before.

That was the first act of a little drama that reached its happy climax two months later. The winding up scene was in the now delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. McDougall. Malcolm had just started in to confess about the great change that Marian could not help seeing. They were sitting in the twilight before the very brightest kind of grate fire, and Malcolm's arm had found a resting place around Marian's slender waist. His other hand was snugly holding her little warm fingers, and as he talked he squeezed them very gently now and then.

"It was all for you, dear," he whispered just so she could hear. All the hard work was for you, and for the happiness I thought it would bring you. I thought you'd understand, dear, but now I am glad you didn't."

"But I did understand, dear boy," she answered, in just as low a tone. "And I knew it was all for me—that was why I was content in my loneliness. I knew some day that we would earn the glorious times we are enjoying now. It was not so lonely, though, for I had my big surprise to think of. Look!" She took a magazine from the rack by their side and opened it near the front. "Look," she said again, as she held it to his eyes.

There before him was her surprise. A short story by Marian Lethbridge—his wife! In one of the leading magazines, too!

"But your letter to Luzette, dear heart?" he asked in wonder. "He could gain his breath. 'You said you were lonely and didn't have anything to do.'"

"It's our turn to confess," Larry and Betty advanced from out of the shadows. "I wrote that letter," Betty confessed meekly. "And I told her to and helped her," came glibly from Larry. "But why?" Malcolm looked from one to another.

"We wanted you to give Larry a chance at the office—a chance to do some of the work that would show them he could be of more value down there and get a raise in salary, and he wanted Marian to have happiness, too, because she wasn't really happy. It has got everything we wanted."

"And we wanted to get married," joined in Larry with bated breath. "What does it all mean?" Poor Marian could not make head nor tail of it. "It means that I have been a blind idiot," Malcolm gasped; "but I am the happiest man in the world, anyway."

"Don't be too sure of that," Larry's voice came from out of the shadow and was followed closely by a smothered little cry from Betty that no one mistook for a cry of fright. There was not a word of protest from any one—all lips were very much engaged otherwise.

Love of Trees.

That one should feel affection for the great trees is natural. In the Minnesota forests I met a lumberman who told me he would weep bitter tears when he got orders to cut down a fine hemlock. Julius Chambers writes in the Brooklyn Eagle. Every stroke of the ax seemed to him to be felt by the sturdy monarch whose life he was taking.

When I have revisited the "woods" in which, as a boy, I gathered nuts, I have fancied the trees I used to climb recognized me. They looked the same. They hadn't aged. The shell-bark hickory trees seemed a trifle more dangerous to climb than of yore, and the lengthened arm, had barely kept pace with the expanding bark. I could still encircle their trunks and could have climbed them if necessary, but the rewards of a winter's store of nuts no longer appeal to me. The walnuts and hickory nuts one buys do not taste like those gathered with one's own hands.

GIRL KILLED

When Woman Tries to Prove Rifle Is Unloaded.

Alton, Ill., May 29.—Alice Spruell, 14 year old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spruell of Albion, was accidentally shot and killed with a .22 caliber "unloaded" rifle in the hands of a neighbor, Mrs. Farmer, at Albion.

Visitors in the Farmer home asked if the gun was loaded. To prove that it was not, Mrs. Farmer pointed it out the door and pulled the trigger. But it proved to be loaded. At that instant the Spruell girl stepped up to the door and was shot between the eyes. She died a few minutes later.

Gift Brought Punishment.

A young woman employed in the office of a Kobe shipping house received from her millionaire employer a sum of money as a present on New Year's day. The girl took her fat wad of notes home. She was promptly thrashed by her mother for stealing them and dragged to the office to apologize for the theft. Explanations were made, but when they got home she was admonished once more for not stating her case more clearly.—Japan Chronicle.

Tracing Use of Lightships.

The first lightship, the Nore, was established in England in 1752, at the mouth of the Thames. The first in this country was stationed in 1820 in Chesapeake bay, off Willoughby Spit. Sandy Hook, now Ambrose, light vessel was established in 1823. A light vessel was placed off Cape Hatteras in 1824 and was driven ashore in 1827, and a ship was not established again in this dangerous position until 1897, after unsuccessful attempts had been made to build a lighthouse on Diamond Shoal.

BAPTISTS PLAN NEW SEMINARY

$1,000,000 To Be Spent On Buildings On Brownsboro Road Contract.

(Courier-Journal.)

One million dollars will be spent in erecting the Baptist Theological Seminary on a forty-four acre tract on Brownsboro road, according to the announcement of Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the seminary. The buildings proposed will be the largest, most modern in the country, and will be built within five years, he said. The seminary may have as many as ten buildings. Boulevard and driveways are to be built thru the grounds, and a gymnasium, tennis courts and a complete athletic field are planned.

The site fronts 1,000 feet on the north side of Brownsboro road, and extends east nearly to Pipe Line avenue.

The present site of the seminary fronts about 400 feet on Broadway and 600 feet on Fifth Street, and it is estimated to have a valuation of $1,000,000. This property will be sold or leased, and possibly part will be held as an investment.

Fund to Be Set Aside.

The Southern Baptist Convention at Atlanta last week, in authorizing a $75,000,000 drive for missionary and educational objects within the church, voted to set aside $1,000,000 for the construction of a new theological seminary, after the subject first was brought up at the meeting of the seminary board of trustees which meets annually in conjunction with the church convention.

This campaign for $75,000,000 will be mapped out at a committee meeting in Atlanta next Wednesday and Thursday and it is probable that the five year drive will be so arranged as to raise $15,000,000 each year.

When the seminary will receive its appropriation is undecided, but it is probable that the required $1,000,000 will be turned over before the 5-year drive has ended. Dr. Mullins said that the work of construction will begin when the funds are in hand.

Already building and landscape architects are at work on plans, and three or four sets of plans and arrangement of grounds have been submitted, but none definitely adopted.

History of Seminary.

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary was moved to Louisville from Greenville, S. C., in 1877. It had been founded in 1859, largely as the result of an educational convention held in Louisville in May, 1857, although the matter first was brought up at the Southern Convention as 1845.

The Civil War had sadly crippled the institution and for the first few years after being brought here the seminary's existence was precarious. A large donation in 1880 from Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, however turned the tide and since that time it has prospered until it has become the largest theological seminary in the world, attracting students from all over the United States and many foreign countries.

William F. and George W. Norton gave $60,000 to build Norton Hall and Mrs. J. Lawrence Smith $50,000 to build the library. New York Hall was erected with funds contributed by New York men, when the building derives its name.

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary has trained 5,000 men for the ministry. Of this number about 200 hundred have gone to the foreign mission field, hundreds have worked under mission boards in this country, thousands have become pastors and many are editors, secretaries and leaders in various branches of denominational work.

The seminary had the distinction of being the first to give the English Bible a large place in its curriculum; to establish a chair on the Sunday school and was among the first to establish of Biblical Theology and Comparative Religion and Missions and to introduce the study of sociology into the theological curriculum.

Dr. Mullins has been president since 1899, succeeding Dr. William H. Whitsitt. Upon the occasion of the celebration of the seminary's fiftieth anniversary in 1909, Dr. Mullins successfully engineered a $600,000 jubilee endowment.

Just now the seminary's attendance is not up to normal, because of the large drafts upon students for the Y. M. C. A. and chaplain work in camps in America and with the American Expeditionary Forces. Even the president of the school donned gray of the "Y" and was active at Camp Taylor.

The new million dollar seminary will mean that Louisville will have the two most beautiful seminaries, from an architectural point of view, in America. The Presbyterian Theological Seminary at First Street and Broadway, which cost $220,000, is generally conceded to have no rival of its kind in this country and few in Europe.

FOODSTUFFS IN PLENTY

Great Increase in Wheat Stocks Shown By Official Reports.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Commercial stocks in wheat reported in a survey made by the Department of Agriculture for May 1, 1919, amounted to 98,873,147 bushels. These holdings, reported by 9,857 firms—elevators, warehouses, grain mills, and wholesale dealers—were nearly three times as large as the stocks held by the same firms a year earlier, the actual percentage being 289.7 per cent of the 1918 stocks. The figures refer to stocks actually reported and do not represent the total commercial stocks of the country, nor do they include stocks on farms.

Visible Supply Figures Compared.

The commercial visible supply figures, as published by the Chicago Board of Trade for May 3, 1919, show 49,502,000 bushels of wheat as against 2,777,000 bushels a year earlier. The corresponding Bradstreet figures show 55,247,000 bushels, as against 7,572,000 for 1918. As compared with the same date last year, these figures, as well as those obtained by the more extensive survey, show a very great relative increase in commercial stocks of wheat on May 1, 1919.

Other Cereals, Flour and Cornmeal.

The commercial stocks of other cereals reported for May 1, 1919, according to the department's statement, were as follows: Corn, 20,000,316 bushels; oats, 50,787,249 bushels; barley, 25,060,638 bushels; rye, 21,736,760 bushels. These stocks represent the following percentages of the corresponding stocks of May 1, 1918: Corn, 93 per cent; oat 93.6 per cent; barley, 174.1 per cent; rye, 418.2 per cent.

The commercial stocks of flour and corn meal, as reported for the survey, were as follows: Wheat flour, white, 6,008,529 barrels; whole wheat and graham flour, 45,808 barrels; barley flour, 200,196 barrels; corn flour, 10,588,306 pounds; corn meal 49,763,019 pounds; buck wheat flour, 22,526,580 pounds; mixed flour, 45,697,035 pounds. These stocks represent the following percentages of the stocks on hand a year ago: Wheat flour, white, 118.9 per cent; whole wheat and graham flour, 44.7 per cent; barley flour, 3.4 per cent; rye flour, 41.6 per cent; barley flour, 3.4 per cent; corn flour, 32.1 per cent; corn meal, 37.6 per cent; buckwheat flour, 379.4 per cent; mixed flour, 185.4 per cent.

Stocks of Selected Commodities.

Elevators, warehouses, and wholesale dealers reported stocks of dry edible beans amounting to 5,862,515 bushels, while wholesale grocers and warehouses report the following commodities in the quantities indicated: Cleaned rice, 103,833,586 pounds; rolled oats, 45,578,214 pounds; canned salmon, 115,543,781 pounds; canned tomatoes, 228,197,071 pounds; canned corn, 98,843,065 pounds; sugar, 192,385,926 pounds. These stocks represent the following percentages of the corresponding stocks on hand May 1, 1918: Beans, 130.1 per cent; rice, 125 per cent; rolled oats, 111.8 per cent; canned salmon, 126.7 per cent; canned tomatoes, 199.1 per cent; canned corn, 165.9 per cent sugar 84.7 per cent.

Stocks of condensed and evaporated milk were reported by condensaries, cold storages, warehouses, and wholesale grocers as follows: Condensed milk, 33,464,078 pounds; evaporated milk, 90,725,523 pounds. The holdings of condensed milk reported for May 1, 1919, represented 86.5 per cent of the stocks held by the same firms a year ago, while the holding of evaporated milk represented 85.7 per cent of the May 1, 1918 stock.

UNDER IRON GRIP TO GUARD YALE

Guardsmen and Police Patrol City As New Riots Threaten.

New Haven, Conn., May 28.—Two companies of the Connecticut state guard, 250 policemen and two scores of military police from the army hospital at Arlington were patrolling the streets in the downtown and Yale sections of the city tonight as a precautionary measure against a renewal of last night's rioting among mobs of city men and boys and Yale students.

Four more companies of the State Guardsmen were housed in the armory here with four motor trucks at hand for emergency calls. Orders for the mobilization of six companies of Guardsmen were issued today by Maj. Gen. Lucien F. Burpee, of Hartford.

The only outward indication of the unusual situation was the great number of pedestrians in the downtown section tonight. Police allowed no loitering and groups that congregated were quickly dispersed.

HAWKER BELITTLES AMERICAN SUCCESS

English at Luncheon Silent When Airman Says Safeguards Detract From Honor.

London, May 28.—Speaking at a luncheon given by the Daily Mail today in his honor, Lieut. Commander Grieve's honor, Harry G. Hawker, deprecated the organization which had won for the United States the honor of the first crossing of the Atlantic by a heavier than air machine. He declared that it was not a serious attempt with a ship stationed every "twenty yards."

Hawker continued: "If you put a ship every fifty miles it shows you have no flight in your motor."

This was greeted with absolute silence on the part of the men gathered at the luncheon, numbering between 250 and 300, all of whom were British. A few minutes before they had cheered heartily the statement that the American navy aviators had been successful in reaching Europe.

Hawker disclosed that on Saturday night, immediately preceding his start, he and Raynham had agreed that unless the wind changed they would start on Sunday for a flight by way of the Azores and Portugal. The wind veered slightly Saturday night, enough to give Hawker and Grieve a chance to start from their airdromes; but it was unfavorable for Raynham.

Was Forced To Act.

He declared that, though the weather was unfavorable, the success of the Americans in reaching the Azores forced him to start. "Any Englishman here," he added, "would have done the same thing under the same circumstances."

Lieutenant Commander Grieve said he was very nervous over his navigation abilities when he started, but soon ascertained that the navigation of an airplane was the same as of a ship. There were no difficulties until the clouds precluded the taking of sightings. He predicted that the navigating of an airplane would be a simple matter in the near future.

The Daily Mail's £5,000 consolation prize was presented to the airmen.

Hawker and Lieut. Commander Grieve were received by King George at Buckingham palace this morning. King George bestowed on Hawker and Grieve the insignia of the air force cross. They are the first actual recipients of this order.

TO ABOLISH FOUR REVENUE DISTRICTS IN KENTUCKY

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Plans for the reorganization of the Kentucky revenue service have been completed and now await only the formal approval of President Wilson before coming effective. The revenue collectorships at Covington, Danville, Lexington and Owensboro will be abolished and instead of five revenue districts there will be but one with headquarters at Louisville. Commissioner Roper holds that since this has been legislated out of business there is no longer any need of five revenue districts in Kentucky.

The Kentucky senators realize the force of Roper's position and will not seriously contest the new arrangements although it plays havoc with time-honored senatorial patronage.

Sensors Beekham and Stanley have agreed on the appointment of W. V. Gregory, of Mayfield, as the United States Attorney for the Western district of Kentucky. He will succeed Perry B. Miller. The nomination will be sent to the senate soon.

The three girls were run down by an auto in March and seriously injured. Although they did not know at the time who was in the auto it was traced to Kennelly. Kennelly denied it but the jury gave the girls damages. They sued for $11,000.

Chicago, May 28.—Describing the Republican party as an organization "which complains and moves backward" and the peace treaty and League of Nations covenant "as the greatest document of human liberty ever prepared," Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the Democratic National Committee, today sounded the keynote for an aggressive presidential campaign in 1920.

Party leaders declared they welcomed the opportunity to make the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant the issue in the forthcoming fight and expressed confidence of victory.

Until President Wilson definitely announces his attitude toward a third term, party chieftains say there will be no serious discussion of candidates.

Political issues and plans for increasing the efficiency of party organization occupied the attention of the committee at today's sessions.

The committee adopted a resolution congratulating President Wilson on his work at Paris in connection with drafting the treaty of peace and the League of Nations covenant and calling on the United States Senate promptly to ratify the document.

FRENCH ACE, UP 31,000 FEET, BREAKS RECORD

Paris, May 28.—Adj. Casale, a French aviator, today in a flight for altitude ascended 31,000 feet. This constitutes a world's record. Adj. Casale, during the war, had numerous fights in the air, and is credited with having downed 12 German machines. The former altitude record was made by Capt. Lang, of the British army, in January of the present year, when he flew to the height of 30,500 feet. Lang carried one passenger.

Source of Republic's Strength.

Government in a well-constituted republic requires no belief from man beyond what his reason authorizes. He sees the rationale of the whole system, its origin and its operations, and, as it is best supported when best understood, the human faculties act with boldness and acquire, under this form of government, a gigantic majesty.—Thomas Paine.

Friendship's Obligations.

I must feel pride in my friend's accomplishments as if they were mine—and a property in his virtues.—Emerson.

Bandits Dynamite Train.

Gen. Ernesto Dami, a Major, four other officers and forty men were killed when the Mexican rebels under Felix Diaz dynamited a troop train of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The rebels, in an attempt to end railroad communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, threatened to destroy every train sent over the road. Increasing evidence of the growing power of Villa continues to reach Washington and the situation is regarded as grave.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This
Lady Much Suffering. Black-
Draught Relieved.

Meadorsville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before."

I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theodore's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

CHINESE MEN BID FOR GIRLS CARRIED ON FLOATS

(Asia Magazine.)

Four men carry a square platform or frame. Near the center is a slender bamboo pole about ten feet long. Attached to the pole by a hidden tether is the swaying form of a young girl. Each float carries two girls. They are gayly dressed. A rhythmic motion is imparted to their bodies by the movement of the carriers. A rope attached to the girl's waist holds her fast to the bamboo. The right hand clasps the pole, giving illusion that the girl is thus supported. In the left hand she carries a fan and streamers of bright colored silk. This hand moves in unison with the beat of the drum carried just ahead of the float. 1-2-3, 1-2-3, 1-2-3, 4, 1-2-3, it goes, without waver or change.

The occasion may be a funeral march or a martial quickstep—the movement continues with incessant monotony. These girls remain thus suspended in the air for hours at a time. They are carried about the city streets after the ceremony of the day is ended, the most admired attraction in the whole display. Men wanting wives make bids for them, and parents are more than willing to have their daughters exploited without charge to them. Any man interested may easily ascertain the name, age, place of abode and the sum required to secure any girl desired. Their faces are painted and their feet encase in the smallest possible shoes, and these are made to show, in the most attractive manner. Men especially trained are engaged to carry these floats.

Standardization Pays.

When a county or community standardizes any product, orders are sure to come. The following from a letter from the county agent of Oldham county dated April 12th, tells its own tale:

"Received inquiries for a total of 740 White Rock Hatching eggs today from other counties. The result of two years' work on 'White Rock Standardization has resulted in calls for eggs and stock that exceed our supplies. The people can't fill all the orders that have been received. A number of orders for eggs have been returned and some orders for stock have had to be returned because the people could not fill them. Two dollars for pullets and five dollars for cockerels have been the extreme prices paid and the people can't fill the orders that come in. All this is due to the advantages of adopting one special breed. Our only difficulty now is furnishing the goods in sufficient quantity. Have received orders for the entire hatching egg output of the county, or at least the people have."

Opportunity to Be Seized.

A painter in London was engaged in cleaning a luggage van, when the door swung back, striking him violently on the head. "Oh! Pat," he exclaimed to an Irishman standing on the platform, "I believe I've cut open my head." "Well, begor, now's the time to get something into it," was Pat's witty reply.

GREATEST CALAMITY

That Ever Happened in Hopkinsville
Caused By Col. Monsch's Offer.

Col. A. Monsch while walking down Main street with a bottle of Beaufort Ginger Ale in his hand caused five thousand women to get weak in their knees and faint. Ten thousand men butted their heads against telephone poles. Five thousand men rubber-necked at it. Now what caused this consternation? The Colonel guaranteed every woman a million-dollar husband and a five thousand-dollar automobile with every bottle they drank. Colonel Monsch at once phoned to W. A. Chambers & Company to send every one of their trucks and every truck in the city and hacks and carriages were used to haul these people out to the hospital. The hospital being unable to handle them all the Colonel wired to Camp Taylor to send in cots. They were sent by flying machines to Hopkinsville to accommodate all those who were hurt. The Colonel had the entire car of 100 barrels sent out to the hospital grounds. In a sympathetic way he asked every one to drink a bottle of Beaufort Ginger Ale. After they drank it they all got up and walked home. I called on J. H. Morgan and Thad McCormick, the popular salesmen of the W. A. Chambers Company and Jack Tobin to help me with all these people who were hurt. After I saw they were all getting up and were all right I walked back to the city. I met Mrs. M. Y. Costello and Mrs. F. M. Marquet on the street with axes on their shoulders. I said to them, "You are patriotic, you are going to cut trees for the Government shipyards?" They said, "No, we are going to chop off the heads of our husbands for making eyes at the women out at the hospital and if you say much to me I will chop your head off." That was the greatest event in Colonel's life, how to soothe these women. I said to them, "Let me give you a bottle of Beaufort Ginger Ale," and it tickled them to death and they went off laughing. I walked over to the W. A. Chambers Company door and I met Mr. Clements, the sales manager of the W. A. Chambers Company and he looked liked he had lost every friend on earth. I gave him a bottle and you could see that sparkle in his eyes. He went home and Mrs. Clements asked him what made him have such rosy cheeks. He said he drank a bottle of Beaufort Ginger Ale. So Mrs. Clements put her arms around him and kissed him and said, "Clements, you are the handsomest man in town."

Jack Tobin, the popular restaurant man—I looked him up—his family tree, while I was here. He was shipped here on a tramp steamer in a croaker sack as ballast, two hundred years ago and thrown off at Santa Rosa, Fla. But since he came here he has made good and his service is as good as that in any large city, but he has those outlandish names on his bill-of-fare that no man can read. "I doubt if the 'can' read them himself. He said they were French dishes. After all this excitement I got weak in the knees too so I had to drink a bottle of Beaufort's Ginger Ale. After leaving Tobin's I went by to C. R. Clark & Company's store. I noticed Miss Woodson and Miss Harrison crying. I said to them, "Don't cry little girls, don't cry, for you'll get to Heaven by and by." I asked them what they were crying about. They said I did not give them a bottle of Beaufort's Ginger Ale. So I told Mr. Alex Cavanaugh, the head-salesman of the C. R. Clark company, to give them all a bottle of Beaufort. I noticed a sweet smile pass over their faces as I went out of the store. The sweet and gracious way Miss Woodson and Miss Harrison waited on customers no wonder that C. R. Clark & Company have such a great trade. Mr. Alex Cavanaugh, he will scold sometimes but when he does the girls tickle him under the chin and he forgets all about his troubles.

Look at Morris' fountain, you find Beaufort served in the highest state of perfection and sanitation. I asked Mr. Morris what made him so handsome and he said his mother kissed him all the time while he was a baby. I finally walked back to the hotel about ten o'clock I went to bed. That night I had the sweetest dream in the world. I dreamed I went to sleep in Beaufort Springs, Va. I saw the water bubbling and gurgling over the beautiful white pebbles and the mocking birds were singing sweetly and the sun kissed me when I awoke. Oh, girls, this was the garden of Eden. Where the water you drank was as fragrant as the perfume of flowers and as sweet as the breath of time. No wonder it makes every woman love the whole world when she drinks it. It is the only thing in the world that will bring happiness, sunshine and joy to every family. It makes everyone love one another. Here is the Colonel's toast to every woman who drinks a bottle of Ginger Ale:

"Hail, woman first formed in Eden's bowers, midst murmuring springs and fragrant breathing flowers, thou art 'mid light and gloom, through good and ill, Creation's glory and man's chief blessing still. Let us enjoy life's pleasures while we briefly sojourn here, lest the future bring no treasures such as woman's love and Beaufort Ginger Ale, which is so dear.—ADVERTISEMENT."

DATES IN PROGRESS OF CONQUEST OF THE AIR

The astounding feats of the American flyers in crossing the Atlantic is all the more amazing after a glance over the history of aviation.

1885—Hargrave, an Englishman, made the first sustained flight in a heavier-than-air machine, with compressed air for motive power, over a distance of 800 feet.

1893—Phillips of England, with steam motive power, flew 400 feet.

1894—Maxim of France flew 200 feet with steam motive power.

1895—Professor Langley of America flew one mile with steam motive power.

1896—Ader, France, flew 30 meters with gasoline engine.

1904—Wright's flew 5 minutes 17 seconds with gasoline.

1903—Wright's flew 59 seconds, gasoline engine.

1905—Wright's flew 38 minutes 13 seconds with gasoline engine.

1906—Santos Dumont flew 60 meters, at a speed of 25 meters per hour.

1908—A number of sustained flights, 25 to 75 kilometers, Wrights.

1909—Bleriot flew 27 miles 'cross country.

1910—Sopwith, England, flew 169 miles, 'cross country.

1912—Bleriot flew 400 miles, at a speed of 55-miles an hour.

1913—Moissant flew 550 miles, at 62.5 miles per hour.

1914—Graham-White flew 700 miles, at 60.5 miles per hour.

1915-'16-'17-'18 saw tremendous strides in war aviation.

1919—Commander Towers, Lieut. Commanders Read and Bellinger fly across the Atlantic.

The first attempt to cross the Atlantic by the air route was made by Melvin Vaniman, in a dirigible balloon named the America, Oct. 10, 1910. He set sail from Atlantic City. When two days out the craft encountered a storm, and Vaniman and his crew were picked up on the 18th of the steamship Trent, 375 miles east of Norfolk.

Vaniman's second attempt, in the Akron, July 1, 1912, from Atlantic City, resulted in his death and that of his four companions. At a height of more than 500 feet the big gas bag exploded.

LIEUT. LONG WRITES HOME

Now Located at Chemnitz, In Russian
Prison War Camp
Work.

The following letter has been received from Lieut. Herschel A. Long by his father, Mr. W. A. Long: U. S. Troops, Russian Prisoner of War Camp, Chemnitz, Germany.

Dear Father:

It was with some surprise that on the 7th of February I received an order stating that I had been selected for special work with the Interallied Commission of Repatriation of Russian Prisoners of War and that I would leave on the morrow for the interior of Germany. No place was stated in the order, only that I would leave Toul and would receive further orders at that station.

Upon arriving at Toul I learned something of the mission upon which I had started. It seems that one of the terms of the armistice was the Germans should hold all Russian prisoners of war until such a time as the Allies would decide that they should be sent home. As the German food rations for prisoners is rather scant, and as the Russians had at one time been our allies, the commission had decided that they would furnish an extra amount of food, further supplies of clothing and some amusement for the prisoners until such a time as it were deemed wise to send the men back to Russia. We were still in the dark, however, as to where the prison camps were located, and as to our future duties at these camps.

Toul is one of the quaintest cities that I have yet seen in France. It is a city of probably thirty thousand inhabitants, but far different from a city of that size in the States. The city is surrounded by a high wall, extending something like thirty feet above the level ground, but really much higher, because there is a moat of about 20 feet in depth on the outside of the walls.

The entry of the city is by different gates, and all these gates are large drawbridges, which can be raised in case an attack is made on the city. Protecting each of these gates are heavy doors of iron, with port holes for rifle and machine guns.

One of the most interesting buildings in the city is the old cathedral, started in the 11th century. It is a magnificent structure of pure white stone and is Gothic in type. The interior is even more beautiful than the exterior, and the furnishings, such as altars, embroideries, candlesticks, and altar vessels are among the handsomest in France. One of the interesting features is a cabinet with glass sides set in gold, in which are three skulls said to be those of three patron saints of the cathedral. Leading from one of the side doors of the cathedral is an interesting old cloister, with the floor stones worn much by the footsteps of the thousands who have walked there in penitence during the past ten centuries.

At Toul, we were divided in groups of a field officer, a lieutenant as adjutant, and a medical officer, and 24 soldiers. All our arms were taken from us, and our soldiers were fully equipped.

Early one morning we boarded the American special for Coblenz, the headquarters of the Third American Army, the Army of Occupation. The route was one of interest—as it led through the lines where for over four years, the French and Germans had been drenched. The exact point where we crossed the lines was at Pont-a-Mousson. To our surprise this town was hardly damaged at all. One of the two buildings showed effect of shell fire, and many of the walls were pitted with machine gun fire, but the damage was very slight compared to the damage wrought to the towns on the Western end of the line from St. Mihiel and the Verdun to the west and north. In that sector a few walls are the only remaining evidences of a town.

It seemed rather strange for an American train loaded with American soldiers to be traveling safely through the line of trenches and barbed wire, where only a few months before the field gray of the Boche and the horizon blue of the Poilu were engaged in a death struggle. The day was a beautiful one and a calm seemed to rest over the battlefield. It was a peaceful scene, but those ugly zigzagged scars on the face of Mother Nature showed us that it had not always been so peaceful.

Strange to say, one could tell immediately when the line between French and German Lorraine were crossed. As France appears old in every respect, just so does Germany reflect the modern in every respect. The French seem to worship the old, while the Germans worship the new.

Stranger than that, their fathers and their fathers' fathers before them used. It looks as if no new buildings are ever built, or at least in the past two hundred years. The villages are simply irregular groups of buildings, mostly stone or cement with no sanitation and no modern conveniences. The people in these villages till the soil in the neighboring country, and I must say their methods of cultivation appear far behind ours. But how different do the German villages and fields appear; none of the villages have been damaged by shell fire and none of the fields are marred with lines of trenches and barbed wire. The villages are clean, neat and modern in every respect—most of them have paved streets and electric lights. Everywhere one sees evidences of the so called "modernity" of the Germans. The fields are cultivated, and when I say cultivated, I mean cultivated, because every bit of ground seems to be almost in perfect condition the earth is pulverized almost to powder. One thing is very noticeable, however—the shortage in all forms of animal life—there are few horses, cattle, or even dogs. All were eaten during the four years of the war.

Our first step was at Metz, formerly capital of Lorraine. After the Franco-Prussian war, the Germans made this city the keystone of their line of defenses on the French frontier. They made it the strongest fortified inland city in the world. Our

SURE DIXIE BEE WILL BE BUILT

Mayor Bosse Assured by Governor
Goodrich Market Highway Would Be Early Project.

Mayor Bosse and the other men who boosted the Dixie Bee Line Wednesday before the senate highway commission and the governor, said yesterday they were confident the powers will act favorably on the request for the improvement of the Dixie Bee line and the bridging of White river at Hazleton.

"From talks I had with the governor," said Mayor Bosse, "I know that this will be done—this year if there are enough funds. The Governor positively assured me that it would be done during his administration."—Courier.

Biblical Thrift.
The Scriptures give us many lessons in thrift. Ezekiel warned the children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to be thrifty. He said: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel IV: 9. The Bible shows that Ezekiel ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only "from time to time."—Thrift Magazine.

Hemp Tree's Many Products.
The hemp tree is one of the most versatile plants in the world. From it comes, besides rope and twine, paper, the drug hashish, called by its docters "the joyous," obtained by boiling the leaves and flowers with fresh butter; a valuable vegetable oil, a cake used by the farmers for their stock, and the finer varieties are used for cloth, coarse laces and braids. A great deal of the seed is exported for canary seed.

Defective Camouflage.
"Teacher" had gone to the movies with a bachelor who chose young associates as a sort of camouflage for his own age. The next morning she received the following greeting from one of her pupils: "Oh, teacher, I saw you at the show last night. Was that your papa with you?"

stay at this place was only for a few minutes, and there was no chance for us to see any of the city.

From Metz our journey led us through Luxemburg and part of the Rhine Province into Coblenz, the headquarters of the American army of occupation, and one of the bridgeheads over the Rhine.

I will write you about Coblenz in a later letter. With the kindest of regards to all my friends, I am,
Your affectionate son,
HERSCHEL A. LONG.
